Chrism Mass is an annual tradition, usually held on the morning of Maundy Thursday, or at some other convenient time prior to Easter. During the Chrism Mass various holy oils are consecrated or set aside for holy use: the oils of Chrism, the Catechumenate, and for healing. Clergy are also invited to renew their ordination vows.

SU QLD chappies

Townsville SHS

Willows SS

Hermit Park SS

SU QLD chaplains, or 'chappies', provide spiritual and emotional support to school communities. They are in the prevention and support business: helping students find a better way to deal with issues ranging from family breakdown and loneliness, to friendships and mental health..

They provide a listening ear and a caring presence for children and young people in crisis, and those who just need a friend. They also provide support for staff and parents in school communities.

- More than 67% of Queensland State Schools have a chappy.
- That leaves around 400 state schools without a chappy!
- SU QLD has placed chappies in 63% of all Queensland state primary schools and in 88% of all Queensland state high schools.
- Right now, our chappies are serving more than 400,000 Queensland students.

Priest leaves after three hard years

Life and times

Pioneering Church of England minister James Adams arrives in Townsville in 1870 with a workload that forces him to quit after three years

Adams' resignation because of ill health, observing: "He has endeared himself to all classes of the community and his loss will be deeply regretted."

A sketch of the inexperienced deacon's achievements can be found in the online history of St James Cathedral, Townsville.

Townsville's Anglicans secured Mr Adams' appointment by promising the Bishop of Sydney, Dr Frederic Baker, to meet £120 of his £200 annual stipend. The balance came from funds of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

His arrival spurred members to begin fundraising for a church. The Anglicans' occasional worship leader Police Magistrate James Gordon was unhappy with using the courthouse as a makeshift house of God.

He was ashamed Townsville had two theatres and no churches in 1870, describing this as "a standing reproach to us all" when launching construction of St James Church on Melton Hill in May, 1871.

The weatherboard church, opened in October, 1871, at a cost of £400. Mr Gordon's mother reportedly presented a stained-glass rose window to be placed above the entry.

Townsville's Catholics opened their first church on The Strand a few months later.

The Rockhampton Bulletin's depiction of a Catholic-Protestant church-building race seems far-fetched.

"Mr Adams, the Church of England Clergyman, has been here eight months, and there has been scarcely a movement towards getting up a church," the newspaper sneered. "Perhaps they may be shamed into doing something when the Catholic Church is built."

In fact, Mr Adams' duties extended far beyond Townsville - north to the Gulf and west to the North's burgeoning goldfields and pastoral runs.

A report of his first 12 months tabled at the Church Mission Society's annual meeting in Sydney in November 1871 recorded he travelled over a length of 1100 miles.

"His labours throughout that vast district were very much of a missionary character," the Sydney Morning Her- ald reported on November 8, 1871. He had persuaded Ravenswood goldminers to build a church and convinced magistrates and other lay persons to follow James Gordon's example in conducting services.

Before his departure in 1873 with "handsome writing desk, dressing-case and pencil case" from the Sunday school, he organised a novelty auction to clear the parsonage of £60 debt, ensuring a clean start for his successor the Reverend W. Kildahl, previously of Ravenswood.

We are delighted to announce that we have a new web resource which focuses on articles and other resources, many produced by NATSIAC members, relating to the planned National Referendum on an Indigenous Voice to the Australian Parliament.

It's important to hear the voices of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people on this important subject, and our new page aims to contribute to this goal.
